

We live in an era where it is important for everyone, not just experts, to research primary sources and make their own decisions. It is also extremely important to know opposing views that differ from one's own and to deepen the debate. Taking the time to look back at the past is an essential task in order to objectively grasp the whole picture. History repeats itself. Recognising facts from diverse perspectives leads to more diverse debate and dialogue, which is essential for a bright and healthy future.

The impact of the COVID-19 pandemic is ongoing, and we must continue to pay attention to data, information, and scientific articles from various countries and continue to verify the COVID-19 pandemic with a broad, long-term perspective.
